

PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL & PROMOTION POLICY

Introduction

This policy provides a guide to employees for the purpose of the performance appraisal and to ensure that the work performance and training needs of every employee are managed effectively and fairly.

Policy

A performance appraisal gives individual employees and their managers an opportunity to review the performance and look back on what has been achieved during the past year. This also provides a constructive feedback system to motivate the employees and set future objectives. This also enables the company to identify the appropriate area where the individual team members need upscaling and accordingly helps to set up training and development programs.

(I) Appraisal Policy and Process

Our company follows a 360-degree performance appraisal system to make sure that the appraisal is done in a full-fledged way considering all the elements surrounded to the employee. The 360-degree performance appraisal method provides a holistic approach towards the long-term development of the employee and to create a strong leadership front. It includes very important factors such as collaboration, teamwork and leadership. The process follows the steps given below.

Self-assessment

The employee is required to download a copy of the self-assessment form shared by HR, fill the form carefully & are advised to mention all the projects they have worked on during current assessment period in the assessment form and mention their achievements or recognitions (if any) and submit the completed self-assessment form to their Immediate Reporting Manager (IRM) within the stipulated time.

IRM Review

IRM, on receiving of the employee's self-evaluation form reviews the form, mentions their feedback on employee's performance. If the employee has also reported to other project managers during the year, the IRM would gather performance feedback of the employee from all the respective project managers (PM) and fill the form with his/her remarks. IRM would also setup a one on one meeting to discuss with employee about their performance feedback and setup goal/target for upcoming year.

The one on one meeting:

The purpose of this meeting is to have a detailed discussion about employee's performance during past year and to set desired expectations for future aspects.

The meeting will be carried out between individual employees and their respective IRM's. Sufficient time will be allocated so that the meeting is unhurried and any discussion is properly considered.

Final Review:

After completion of above process, IRM will share the consolidated performance evaluation forms to the Departmental Manager/Unit Head (DM) for further review and process. The DM's would review the employees forms and decide the overall employee's grade (A+/A/B/B+/C). The DM's may also on their discretion, conduct a one on one meeting with the employees based on the requirements.

HR Process:

The DM's would then send the duly completed forms to the HR department. HR team would evaluate the forms and based upon the performance reviews, work out the salary appraisals and finally roll out the increments to the team members. Our Company currently follows a yearly appraisal cycle, which runs from April to March every year. Wherein the salary appraisals are offered to the team members based upon their performance in the past year. Additional factors such as business dynamics and company's overall performance are also taken into account.

(II) Promotion Policy and Process

Our employee promotion policy presents guidelines for advancing and promoting employees from within our company. The promotions will be effected as per the positional hierarchy defined in our Organization Chart. The authority to promote the employee's rests with the Departmental Manager/Unit head (DM) who acts in consultation with the Reporting Managers.

The promotions up to the Project Lead Engineer and Project Lead QA would be based upon the total IT experience of the employees as detailed in the Organization Chart. The qualifying experience criteria as mentioned in the Organization Chart is only applicable if the candidate is not under any performance improvement plan. Hence, all the qualifying employees who satisfies this criterion would be eligible for promotions under a straight through process.

Promotions above the Project Lead would purely be based on merit cum requirement basis. High performance candidates who possess the required skill set of the new role would be eligible for promotions. Mere fulfillment of the above will not confer any right for promotion as it also depends on the number of open positions at that particular time.

Eligible employees should have completed at least 1 year with the company to be eligible for promotions above Project Lead.

Policy Amendments

This policy will be reviewed and, if necessary revised in the light of legislative or codes of practice and organizational requirements. Company reserves the right to modify/ amend the policy at any point of time.
